

FINAL CONFERENCE

9 September 2015, 8.00-18.00h

TU Delft, The Netherlands

Content: The purpose of the IN2SAI Final Conference is to host keynote speeches from prominent female scientist, as well as to present the outcomes of the project together with presentations, demonstrations, and other interactive activities. The conference will be hosted with the cooperation of Delft Women in Science (DEWIS). IN2SAI will organise the event as a conference track in CEAS 2015 (<http://www.ceas2015.org/>). The IN2SAI event aims at bringing science and industry closer to women in science and aerospace through this track.

Target groups: The conference's target groups are to be found in the education sector (i.e. female students and professors/researchers), the labor market/aeronautics industry (i.e. human resource managers, career counselors, organisations operating in AI) and the general community (basic to secondary schools, families and parents).

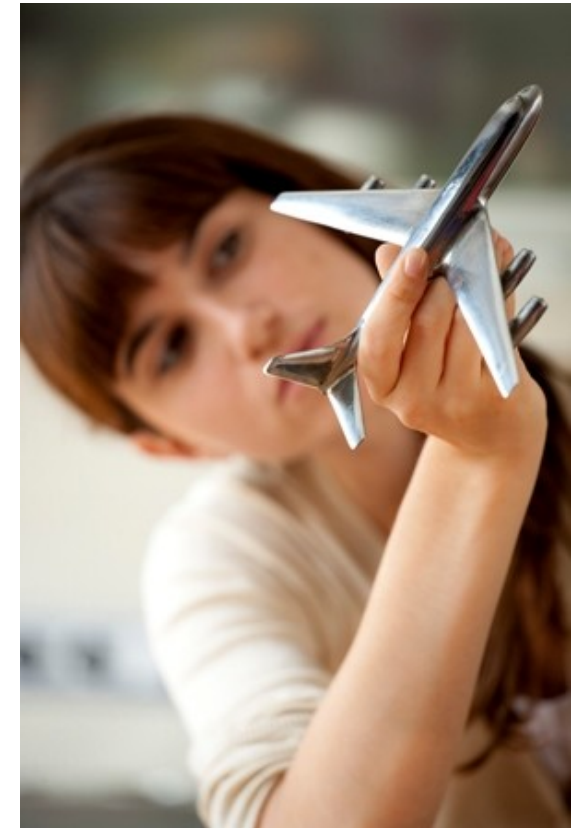

Working methods: The track will include a panel session in the morning, and an afternoon session that will constitute the project Final Conference. The panel session will be hosted with the cooperation of Delft Women in Science (DEWIS). It contains keynote speeches from prominent female scientists and interactive discussions between the speakers and the audience. The afternoon session of the Final Conference will include the project's results together with presentations, demonstrations, and other interactive activities.
